Admissions requirements

All candidates will be required to demonstrate an aptitude for creative practice research. They will present a draft of their proposed creative practice research, and will be interviewed face to face or by skype by a member or members of the course team.

All candidates must possess either:

- a) A good honours degree (1st, good 2.1 or equivalent) including a substantial amount of creative practice, or
- b) A good masters degree (distinction, merit or equivalent) in a creative arts, design or media subject, or
- c) Demonstration of substantial equivalent professional experience in creative practice

There are standard minimum entry requirements for all postgraduate courses. Students are advised to check the standard requirements for the most up-to-date information.

Candidates for whom English is not their first language, or whose primary and secondary education was not conducted in English, or who do not have a degree taught in English will need to have IELTS of 6.5 or higher, including at least 6.0 in each element (speaking, listening, reading and writing).

Aims of the course

The MRES in Creative Practice engages you in the research expertise and scholarship of Westminster University's internationally recognised practice-based research environment, to support you to realise a major creative research project. The course will enable you to:

- Undertake and realise a substantial creative research project;
- utilise advanced critical and creative skills for the implementation of a practice-based creative research project;
- demonstrate at an advanced level the ability to identify the key requirements for the practical and critical implementation of a creative research project;
- attain in depth knowledge and understanding of key theories, methodologies and practices to support the implementation of a major work of creative research practice
- develop critical insights and a reflexive approach to independently manage and realise a substantial creative research project
- exercise the capacity to communicate knowledgeably, effectively and creatively to a advanced level through a range of written and other presentational modes and exhibition;

Employment and further study opportunities

Today's creative organisations need graduates who are both well qualified and possess a broad range of skills relevant to the workplace. The University of Westminster is committed to developing employable graduates by ensuring:

- Career development skills are embedded in all courses;
- that opportunities for part-time work, placements and work-related learning activities are widely available to students;
- potential employment routes in tertiary education
- staff continue to widen and strengthen the University's links with employers in all sectors, involving them in curriculum design and encouraging their participation in other aspects of the University's career education and guidance provision
- staff are provided with up-to-date labour market trends and employers' requirements, which will inform the educational service delivered to students.

Learning outcomes

Learning outcomes are statements of what successful students will have achieved as the result of learning. These are threshold statements of achievement and are linked to the knowledge, understanding and skills that a student will have gained on successfully completing a course.

Knowledge and understanding

1. Critically assess and implement fundamental and specialist concepts and ideas in creative practice-led research to an advanced level.
2. Demonstrate a high level capacity for advanced critical thinking and awareness of current research and research-related issues in creative, critical and professional practice.
3. Demonstrate a proven ability to employ advanced and complex research methodologies in creative practice.
4. Autonomously develop and examine in-depth research questions through the production of a major creative project.

Specific skills

1. Conduct a major piece of creative practice research to a standard of academic and professional excellence.
2. Formulate a thorough and well-developed rationale for undertaking a particular piece of creative practice research.
3. Articulate in-depth and conceptually rigorous research methodologies for the realization of a creative practice-based project
4. Explain and defend, both orally and in writing, a substantial piece of creative practice research

Key transferable skills

1. Solve problems in a systematic and rigorous way, informed by relevant knowledge, and use of appropriate tools and techniques.

2. Act autonomously in initiating, planning and implementing a major creative project.
3. Apply interpersonal and collaborative skills to enhance performance.
4. Demonstrate advanced skills in creative research through applied critical thinking.

Learning, teaching and assessment methods

The course builds on the unique cross-disciplinary practice led research environment in the University of Westminster, in particular through the Centre for Research and Education in Arts and Media (CREAM).

You will work alongside CREAM's doctorate level research community, access a module relevant to your research project selected from the range of the Masters programmes in the faculty of Media, Arts and Design, and engage with research professionals in your field and more widely.

The course provides:

Learning

- Independent research opportunities
- inductions and workshops;
- individual and group tutorials;
- presentations and discussion forums;
- peer-led reading groups;
- self critical and peer led evaluation;
- off site and on site visits and fieldtrips;
- online and physical learning resources.

Teaching

- Lectures and seminars;
- Workshops;
- guest speakers;
- visiting practitioners;
- symposia.

Assessment

Formative and Summative via:

- project proposal development
- delivery of a project proposal document
- observation of research and preparatory work
- reflective essays
- verbal and visual presentations
- realisation and exhibition of final project
- critical reflection
- oral examination

Course structure

This section shows the core and option modules available as part of the course and their credit value. Full-time Postgraduate students study 180 credits per year.

Credit Level 7
Module code	Module title	Status	UK credit	ECTS
	Research Methods in Creative Practice (Semester 1)	Core	20	10
	Creative Practice Research Project (Semester, 2, 3 and 1)	Core	140	70
	20 credit Masters level module selected from the PG Masters portfolio of options, chosen in consultation with and agreed by the course leader (Trimester 2 or 1)	Option	20	10

Please note: Not all option modules will necessarily be offered in any one year.

Academic Regulations

The current Handbook of Academic Regulations is available at westminster.ac.uk/academic-regulations

How will you be supported in your studies?

- Individual supervision
- Group seminars
- Lectures and symposia
- Workshops
- Research study days
- Reading Groups

Course Management

The MRes in Creative Practice is administered from within the Centre for Research and Education in Arts and Media (CREAM) and you will work closely alongside CREAM doctorate students and other postgraduate research and taught students from within The School of Arts. You will be allocated a supervisor from CREAM's team of researchers, taking account of your particular research project proposal, and will receive overall supervision and tutorial support from the MRes Course Leader. L.Reynolds02@westminster.ac.uk

The management structure supporting the course is as follows:

- Dr Lucy Reynolds is the Course Leader responsible for the day-to-day running and overall management of the course and review and development of the curriculum. Lucy can be contacted by email:
- Professor Gregory Sporton, holds overall responsibility for the course and for the other courses run by Westminster School of Arts

The Course Leader is responsible for:

- Admissions processes;
- approving students' programme of study;
- organising tutorials, supervisory support and pastoral care;

- organising and allocating project supervision;
- co-ordinating marks for assessment boards;
- general management of the course.

The Course Team reviews and develops the course and sets the framework within which all members of the course team participate. The course supervisory team for MRes Creative Practice includes: Dr Lucy Reynolds, Dr Roshini Kempadoo, Reader and Co-ordinator of the CREAM PhD programme and postgraduate course and module leaders as appropriate to your chosen options..

For more information about this course please contact the course leader Dr Lucy Reynolds

Academic Support

On arrival, an induction programme will introduce you to the staff responsible for the course, the campus on which you will be studying, the Library and IT facilities, and other learning resources, and to the Campus Registry Office. You will be issued with a copy of the Course Handbook, which provides detailed information about all aspects of the course and study at Westminster. Each course has a course leader or Director of Studies. All students enrolled on a full-time course and part time students registered for more than 60 credits a year will be allocated a personal tutor, who monitors progress and provides advice and guidance on academic matters. The University uses a Virtual Learning Environment called Blackboard where students access their course materials, and enables communication and collaboration with staff and other students

Learning Support

The Academic Learning Development Centre supports students in developing the skills required for higher education. As well as online resources in Blackboard, students can attend Study Skills workshops and one to one tutorials where necessary.

Learning support includes four libraries, each holding a collection of resources related to the subjects taught at that site. Students<sup>1</sup> can search the entire Library collection online through the Library Search service to find and reserve printed books, and access electronic resources (databases, e-journals, e-books). Students can access to study in the libraries, which have areas for silent and group study, desktop computers, laptops for loan, photocopying and printing services. They can also choose from several computer rooms at each campus where desktop computers are available with the general and specialist software that supports the courses taught at their Faculty. Students can also securely connect their own laptops and mobile devices to the University wireless network.

Support Services

The University of Westminster Student and Academic Services department provide advice and guidance on accommodation, financial and legal matters, personal counselling, health and disability issues, careers, specialist advice for international students and the chaplaincy providing multi-faith guidance. The University of Westminster Students' Union also provides a range of facilities to support you during your time at the University.

How do we ensure the quality of our courses and continuous improvement?

The course was initially approved by a University Validation Panel in 2017. The panel included internal peers from the University, academic(s) from another university and a representative from industry. This helps to ensure the comparability of the course to those offered in other universities and the relevance to the programme to employers.

The course is also monitored each year by the College to ensure it is running effectively and that issues which might affect the student experience have been appropriately addressed. Staff will consider evidence about the course, including the outcomes from Course Committees, evidence of student progression and achievement and the reports from external examiners, to evaluate the effectiveness of the course. Each College puts in place an action plan. This may for example include making changes on the way the module is taught, assessed or even how the course is structured in order to improve the course, in such cases an approval process is in place.

A course review takes place periodically to ensure that the curriculum is up-to-date and that the skills gained on the course continue to be relevant to employers. Students meet with review panels to provide feedback on their experiences. Student feedback from previous years e.g. from Course Committees is also part of the evidence used to assess how the course has been running.

How do we act on student feedback?

Student feedback is important to the University and student views are taken seriously. Student feedback is gathered in a variety of ways.

- Through student engagement activities at Course/Module level, students have the opportunity to express their voice in the running of their course. Course representatives are elected to expressly represent the views of their peers. The University and the Students' Union work together to provide a full induction to the role of the course representatives.
- There are also School Representatives appointed jointly by the University and the Students' Union who meet with senior School staff to discuss wider issues affecting student experience across the School. Student representatives are also represented on key College and University committees.
- All students are invited to complete a questionnaire before the end of each module. The feedback from this will inform the module leader on the effectiveness of the module and highlight areas that could be enhanced.
- The University also has an annual Postgraduate Taught Experience Survey or PTES which helps us compare how we are doing with other institutions, to make changes that will improve what we do in future and to keep doing the things that you value.

Please note: This programme specification provides a concise summary of the main features of the course and the learning outcomes that a student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if s/he takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. This specification should be read in conjunction with the Course Handbook provided to students and Module Handbooks, which provide more detailed information on the specific learning outcomes, content, teaching, learning and assessment methods for each module.
